

Hello, Heartland!

We've planned out a sample itinerary for each neighbourhood
—perfect for half a day of discoveries on foot.

Borobudur Snacks Shop

If you're looking for traditional handmade kuehs (cakes) and pastries, then Borobudur Snacks Shop is the place to be. Their Ang Ku Kueh (red tortoise cake) has its own loyal following because its makers are not shy about really stuffing these little kuehs with a variety of fillings, including mung bean, yam and peanut. You'll also find other traditional snacks like ondeh ondeh, durian ambon, and kueh lapis. With old favourites enjoyed by both young and elderly folk, you're bound to score some brownie – or kosui – points if you swing by Borobudur before visiting elderly relatives.

 6442 7637

 537 Bedok North Street 3, #01-523,
Singapore 460537

Add to Google Maps | Directions

 7am-9pm daily

Bedok Heritage Trail

While much of Bedok has been redeveloped to cater to modern lifestyle demands, Bedok and the East Coast is steeped in history of life by the beach—think fishing, beach parties, and even pirates on the high seas. While the Bedok we know today is a mix of HDB heartland, small but intimate condos, hidden sprawling properties and a reclaimed beachfront, you can still explore the Bedok of old through the Bedok Heritage Trail. The trail, curated by the National Heritage Board, includes 10 points that cover the architecture and lifestyle of old Bedok. While the area is undergoing redevelopment again, in preparation for the Thomson-East Coast MRT line, you can still explore each point on foot or bicycle.

Pick up some sweet sustenance from Borobudur Snacks (537 Bedok North Street 3, #01-523, Singapore 460537 | 7am-9pm daily) at the start of the tour. Their Ang Ku Kueh (red tortoise cake) has its own loyal following because its makers really stuff these little kuehs plump with a variety of fillings.

Then make your way to the Play Corridor—a 4km park connector that links Bedok Reservoir Park in the northern part of Bedok and East Coast Park in the south, via Bedok Town Centre. Four themed play hubs with a mix of sculptures and structures that tease the imagination will fascinate the kids, while parents and older folk can find seats and pods to rest their weary feet.

 Yong Hwa Delights

Fish ball noodles are everywhere in Singapore. But it's rare to find a stall that makes their own fish balls and meatballs. That's the appeal of Yong Hwa Delights at the Bedok Interchange Food Centre and Bedok South Food Centre. The second-generation owners continue to perfect their family's more-than-half-a-century-old heirloom recipe and hand crafts each ball of deliciousness. Made with yellowtail fish, these fish balls are plump, juicy and have a good spring to them. Meatballs are made with a mix of fish paste, minced pork and chives for a herbacious hit. You can have the fish and meatballs served in a soup, but our favourite way of enjoying them is dried noodles tossed in the classic sauce and vinegar mix.

 #01-32 Bedok Interchange Food Centre, 207A New Upper Changi Road, Singapore 460207
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 10.30am-10.30pm daily

Heading south and turn off at Bedok South Road and head to Block 16 Bedok South Market, where family-run Yong Hwa Delights (10.30am-10.30pm daily) will, well, delight you with their superbly QQ hand-crafted fish and meatballs. Don't forget to scan the Jalanjalan.me QR code at their stall to get yourself a sweet deal too!

 Percolate

Located in the heart of Bedok North, Percolate has been a favourite among neighbourhood locals since it opened in 2014. It hits all the right notes for a hipster coffee addict – specialty coffees, cold brews, cold pressed juices, granola, cakes, croissant sandwiches, green tea lattes, and cartons of Minor Figures oat milk that you can take home. Percolate also offers a small but eclectic food menu that includes local eats with a mod-twist, such as "chicken rice" couscous and salmon congee. It's also a great place to shop for gifts for caffeine-obsessed friends, with whole bean and capsule coffees for sale, fun reusable coffee cups and bottles of cold brew.

 8259 0316

 136 Bedok North Avenue 3, #01-152, Singapore 460136
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 9am-9pm daily

Still hungry for more? Percolate (Blk 16 Bedok South Market & Food Centre, #01-59, Singapore 460016 | 9am-9pm daily) hits all the right notes with the range of specialty coffees and cold brews, complimented by granola, cakes and bakes.

Pick up a memento of this Bedok Day Out from Rosetta Trading (136 Bedok North Ave 3, #01-152, Singapore 460136 | 12pm-8pm Mon-Wed and Fri, 12pm-6pm Sat-Sun): what started as a simple garment shop in 2001 has since become a house of sarong kebayas and all the accessories from beaded bags and shoes to kerosang and made-to-measure sarong kebaya — at lower-than-average prices too!

Hello, Heartland!

We've planned out a sample itinerary for each neighbourhood
—perfect for half a day of discoveries on foot.

Mother and Baby Panda Statue

Fun fact: Did you know that Chong Pang has a sister city called Xindu in Chengdu, China? The two cities signed an agreement in 1994 and embarked on various business, academic, and cultural exchange programmes. Mr K Shanmugam, then-MP for Sembawang GRC, visited Xindu that year and presented the county's residents with a Merlion statue as a gesture of friendship. In return, Mr Zao Dexi, Magistrate of Xindu County, visited Singapore for the bi-annual Chong Pang Day Celebrations in 1995, and presented local residents with this statue of a mother and baby panda. It is now displayed prominently outside Block 101, at the junction between Yishun Avenue 5 and Sembawang Road.

-

101 Yishun Avenue 5,
Singapore 760101

Add to Google Maps | Directions

-

Chuan Kee Boneless Braised Duck

Good things come to those who wait, so do expect long queues at most hours of the day at Chuan Kee. The original outlet at Ghim Moh Food Centre was established by Mr Huang Ming Yu in 2003, and it made it to the prestigious Michelin Bib Gourmand list in 2018. This sister branch does not disappoint. Tender, juicy, boneless slices of Teochew-style braised duck meat are draped over yam rice, and we're big fans of the luscious sauce that drenches the whole plate. We recommend topping up a little to complete the meal with an egg, some tofu, and a touch of the tangy chilli sauce.

-

105 Yishun Ring Road, #01-159
Chong Pang Food Centre, Singapore 760105

Add to Google Maps | Directions

10am-8pm Tue-Sun

Bring a huge appetite to this walk: Chong Pang is all about food. But before stuffing your face, those interested in history might want to pay a visit to the Mother and Baby Panda Statue (101 Yishun Avenue 5, Singapore 760101), a gift from the magistrate of Xindu County in China, where Chong Pang has a sister city.

Chew on this fun historical fact while chowing down on a gamut of local hawker fare at the Chong Pang Food Centre (105 Yishun Ring Rd, Singapore 760105), from Chuan Kee Boneless Braised Duck and Ho Heng Kway Chap to ice kacang from Rainbow Dessert.

Good Old Days

Feeling nostalgic? Shop at Good Old Days for your favourite childhood snack such as ice gems, butter cookies, Biscuit Piring and more, with prices starting from just $1 for 100g. Good Old Days sprung up along Block 103 in September 2020, and despite its old school vibe, it's actually established by three '90s kids to get them through challenges brought about by the pandemic. Within a few short months, its walls of biscuit tins have attracted a steady and loyal bunch of customers wanting to relive the most delicious parts of their childhood. We love that the team even offers a delivery service for those who live further away – just place your order through their Facebook page, and they'll bring them right to your doorstep!

 9182 3181

 103 Yishun Ring Road, #01-95,
Singapore 760103

Add to Google Maps | Directions

 7am-8.30pm daily

A Super Lucky 7-Eleven

Feeling lucky? Head down to this spot, touted as one of the most auspicious Singapore Pools counters in town. This 7-Eleven has produced nine Group 1 and 28 Group 2 Toto winners since 2014. The outlet should be easy to spot, as you'll find snaking queues wrapped around it most days. But if you're planning a date with Lady Luck, do it soon as the convenience store located at Block 102 will be demolished by the end of 2022 to make way for a new community space called Chill@Chong Pang. In the meantime, though, gamble within means and huat ah!

 6758 5227

 102 Yishun Avenue 5, #01-137,
Singapore 760102

Add to Google Maps | Directions

 24 hours daily

After breakfast, pick up some retro snacks, such as ice gems, butter cookies, Biscuit Piring and more from Good Old Days (103 Yishun Ring Road, #01-95, Singapore 760103 | 7am-8.30pm daily), established by three '90s kids. Feeling lucky?

Head down to the 7-Eleven at 102 Yishun Avenue 5, #01-137, Singapore 760102. Touted as one of the most auspicious Singapore Pools counters in town, it has produced nine Group 1 and 28 Group 2 Toto winners since 2014.

Hello, Heartland!

We've planned out a sample itinerary for each neighbourhood
—perfect for half a day of discoveries on foot.

Sungei Road Green Hub

Thieves' Market was one of the defining landmarks of Jalan Besar before the area was cleared for a new MRT station in 2017. A market in existence since the 1930s, it was a gathering of enterprising karang guni men and women who would hawk their finds on makeshift stalls on the small streets in front of Kelantan Lane. Several attempts to revive the flea market has been made since the clearing of the area, and the latest iteration is a two-unit space opened by non-profit volunteer group The Saturday Movement at the bottom of block 28 Kelantan Road. While the spread of goods isn't quite the kitchen sink it used to be, you'll still find plenty of vintage curios and old electronics crammed into Sungei Road Green Hub, and by some of the same vendors who used to work the streets no less. Vintage lovers should definitely pop in for a spot of treasure hunting while on a walking tour of Jalan Besar.

 28 Kelantan Road, #01-125/135, Singapore 200028

Add to Google Maps | Directions

 11am-8pm Mon-Sat, 10am-8pm Sun

Bersih Food Centre

With the wealth of dining options in the neighbourhood, we don't blame you if you overlook this regular ol' hawker centre across the big street from Rowell Road. But this is where you can get a taste of some old-school dishes that are hard to come by these days. At Lao Liang (#02-37), for example, you can dine on shark meat and shark jelly – a Teochew delicacy akin to French-style cold terrines, made with the predator's robust meat suspended in gelatine. Fu Zhou Poh Hwa Oyster Cake (#02-34) offers fried peanut and ikan bilis-studded fritters stuffed with oysters, prawns, minced pork and chives, and close by at Fu He Turtle Soup (#02-40), owner Mr Lee Hock Hoe serves up bowls of this delicacy that he has perfected through 30 years in the business.

 166 Jalan Besar, Singapore 208877

Add to Google Maps | Directions

Begin your day at Sungei Rd Green Hub (28 Kelantan Road, #01-125/135, Singapore 200028 | 11am-8pm Mon-Sat, 10am-8pm Sun) — a fitting start to your discovery of Jalan Besar, for the Thieves' Market was one of the defining landmarks of the district before the area was cleared for a new MRT station in 2017. You'll still find plenty of vintage curios and old electronics crammed into Sungei Road Green Hub, and by some of the same vendors who used to work the streets no less.

Then make your way to Bersih Food Centre (166 Jalan Besar, Singapore 208877), a veritable playground for those hungry for local fare. Look out for vendors offering exclusive Jalanjalan.me deals, such as Multi Food Supply, famed for their signature salt-baked Chicken and festive offering of bak kwa.

gala
jalan
.me

 Antea Social

Unsee that mental image of the old man stroking his beard, beckoning you into his teahouse with an overgrown fingernail. Antea Social is the modern answer to the format, with its Scandi-cool tones of powder pink and off-white, calming light orbs, and a tea menu that imparts its knowledge in English. This tea company's specialty is its Oolong blends in flavours of Kyoho grapes and golden pomelo so pull up a seat and sip tea with a slice of black sesame or orh nee cake on offer too. And before you leave, order one of the many cold kombucha bottles to take the happy experience home – they're brewed here using Antea Social's carefully sourced leaves.

 6493 0120

 9 Tyrwhitt Road
Singapore 207528
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 11.30am-7pm Sun-Thu, 11.30am-10pm Fri-Sat

Wash all that good stuff down with a cleansing and calming brew from Antea Social (9 Tyrwhitt Road Singapore 207528 | 11.30am-7pm Sun-Thu, 11.30am-10pm Fri-Sat), which offers specialty Oolong blends.

gala
jalan
.me

 Petain Road Shophouses

The main Jalan Besar drag is a densely packed district of some 230 shophouses in Singapore. It has tightly woven roads, but few of its side streets are as beautiful as Petain Road. Once a pocket of the neighbourhood with somewhat of a seedy reputation, the highlight these days are the 18 shophouses built in the 1930s by British architect EV Miller for businessman Mohamed Bin Haji Omar. Snap a few pictures for Instagram while you're here. The Chinese Baroque style of adornment means that the external walls here feature a more-is-more aesthetic of patterned mosaic tiles juxtaposed against tiles splashed with motifs of flowers and birds.

 Petain Road
Add to Google Maps | Directions

Rejuvenated, continue your walk to Petain Road: while the main Jalan Besar drag is a densely packed district of some 230 shophouses, but few of its side streets are as beautiful as this, with 18 shophouses built in the 1930s by British architect EV Miller for businessman Mohamed Bin Haji Omar. The Chinese Baroque style of adornment means that the external walls here feature a more-is-more aesthetic of patterned mosaic tiles juxtaposed against tiles splashed with motifs of flowers and birds.

Round up your tour with a visit to

W Rice Wine (11 Cavan Road, #01-02, Singapore 209848 | 11am-5.30pm

Tue-Fri, 9.30am-4.30pm Sat), a local family business is steeped in history. The Ng family patriarch started brewing rice wine from home since he came to Singapore from China in 1930s, and in 2019, the family decided to turn it into a commercial business to share their family rice wine with more. Since then, W Rice Wine has been used by enthusiastic home cooks and professional chefs alike. While you are there, be sure to scan the Jalanjalan.me QR code at their shop to enjoy an exclusive discount too!

Coba Coba

The sight of a retro rickshaw from Central Java hanging out on a patch of grass welcomes you to Coba Coba. This is a quaint, halal-certified restaurant that serves up generous portions of traditional Indonesian nasi ambeng and nasi padang. Their fare even has the thumbs-up from plenty of politicians, from MP for Nee Soon GRC Associate Professor Muhammad Faishal Ibrahim to Minister for Social and Family Development Mr Masagos Zulkifli. The classic Two-Person Sharing Platter is a delicious pile of beef rendang, ayam kalio, and urap – all covered in sambal and surrounding a dome of white rice. And if you're in a bigger group (or simply feeling very, very hungry), then definitely go for the Deluxe Four-Person Set, which also has udang balado hijau, sambal sotong, and more. Sedap!

 6382 2622

 156 Yishun Street 11, #01-106, Singapore 760156

Add to Google Maps | Directions

 8am-9pm daily

When you are done, check out the myriad quaint neighbourhood shops—from traditional bakeries, heritage bak kwa shops to goldsmiths—before heading to Coba Coba (156 Yishun Street 11, #01-106, Singapore 760156 | 8am-9pm daily) and lunch on traditional Indonesian nasi ambeng and nasi padang at this quaint, halal-certified restaurant.

Hello, Heartland!

We've planned out a sample itinerary for each neighbourhood
—perfect for half a day of discoveries on foot.

Dragon Playground

You've seen the dragon playground in Toa Payoh, but did you know that the dragon has a sibling in Ang Mo Kio? Designed by Mr Khor Ean Ghee from the Housing and Development Board (HDB) in 1979, this location sports a gentle brown beast that boasts a striking blue border and a yellow steel-ringed body that is situated closer to the ground. Even though the original sandpit was replaced by rubber padding in the 1990s to better cushion the fall, the two slides remain in their original tiled form. There used to be five other dragon playgrounds all over Singapore, but this is one of the only two full-sized ones still standing today, so give this lesser-known hangout spot a visit!

 570 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 3, Singapore 560570
Add to Google Maps | Directions

Pine Garden's Cake

There are few storms that a good cake can't calm, and Pine Garden has been delivering decadent slices of comfort for more than three decades. This neighbourhood boutique is best known for its variety of local sweet treats, including the pulut hitam cake, pomelo sago cake, and White Rabbit candy cake. Other popular items include the lychee martini and coffee whisky caramel cakes, and it's also the go-to place in the area for festive goodies like mooncakes and log cakes. And for brides-to-be looking for something rustic and classy, Pine Garden also accepts commissions for tiered wedding cakes. Check out their social media pages to see their latest offerings!

 6457 6159

 529 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 10, #01-2369/2329, Singapore 560529
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 8.30am-9.30pm daily

Start from the dragon playground (570 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 3, Singapore 560570), one of the only two full-sized dragon playgrounds left in Singapore.

From this IG hotspot, move on to a makan hotspot: Pine Garden's Cake (529 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 10, #01-2369/2329, Singapore 560529 | 8.30am-9.30pm daily). An institution that has been delivering decadent slices of comfort for more than three decades, it is loved for their towering chiffons and creations such as pulut hitam cake and White Rabbit candy cake.

jalan
jalan
.me

 Elsie Departmental Store

For those of you who are obsessed with crafting, going into this store would make you feel like a kid in a candy shop. Founded by the eponymous Mdm Elsie Lim, the store has been around for over 30 years. It began as a clothes-making boutique, but eventually turned into a crafts supply shop where customers can also go to learn skills like cross-stitching and basket weaving. It is chock-full of yarn, ribbons, and beads of every size, shape, and colour, and we could spend hours browsing through the vast collection of goodies available here. Pop over to stock up on your stash of materials, or pick up a new hobby.

 6451 5519

 709 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 8, #01-2607, Singapore 560706
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 10.30am-8.30pm daily

jalan
jalan
.me

 Art Mural

Ang Mo Kio scores an "A" in our books when it comes to integrating art into the heartlands. Those going for a jalan jalan session around the neighbourhood will spot murals dotted all over the estate. An old favourite is "Reminiscing Old Ang Mo Kio" by Mr Yip Yew Chong, located behind the Teck Ghee Court Market & Food Centre, which was created as part of the Arts in Your Neighbourhood initiative in 2018 by the National Arts Council. For something more current, check out Mr Lee Kow Fong's (aka Ah Guo) murals near Central Stage, which were painted in July 2020. Featuring adorable mask-wearing and flag-waving families and animals, the works are a celebration of the resilience of the community despite the challenges of the year, and a reminder to find joy in everyday life.

 720 Ang Mo Kio Ave 6, Singapore 560720 (around Ang Mo Kio Central Stage@ Ang Mo Kio Town Centre)
Add to Google Maps | Directions

jalan
jalan
.me

 AMK Town Garden West

We're calling it – AMK Town Garden West is the most underrated green space in Singapore. Spread out over a 22-hectare hill, the park feels like a mini Botanic Gardens, minus the crowds. The most iconic feature here is the pair of 120-step staircases, which are majestically lined with palm trees and make for a great spot for Instagrammers and fitness aficionados alike. The lotus pond used to be a key attraction for photography enthusiasts but our residents share that it has been filled in recent years. That said, there are still plenty of scenic spots for spreading out a picnic mat, strolling through the forested area to admire flowering trees, or letting the kids have a field day at the adventure playground.

 Opposite Ang Mo Kio Town Library, Ang Mo Kio Avenue 6, Singapore 567740
Add to Google Maps | Directions

jalan
jalan
.me

 Kebun Baru Birdsinging Club

You'll hear it before you see it, but when you do spot the Kebun Bahru Birdsinging Club, there will be no mistake that you're at the right place. For the most dramatic sight, come on a Sunday morning. You'll see rows and rows of bird cages hooked onto metal beams, neatly sorted by species, with even more cages strung up on colourful poles on the field beside it. The cacophony made by these feathered friends is something to experience. One of the friendly uncles we spoke with told us that many of them bring their beloved birds here to train for singing competitions, and while there are several bird-singing corners in Singapore, this is the one that the best songstresses go to.

 8182 2943

 159 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 5, Singapore 560159
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 24hr daily but busiest 9.30am-12pm Sun & PH

Walk pass the scenic AMK Town Garden East and head to Elsie Department (709 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 8, #01-2607, Singapore 560706 | 10.30am-8.30pm daily): those obsessed with crafting will feel like a kid in a candy shop at this clothes-making boutique cum sewing materials store that has been a favourite with hobbyists for more than three decades.

If you are in Ang Mo Kio on a weekend morning, go past the many Art Murals around Blk 720 Avenue 6 and the beautifully lush Ang Mo Kio Town Garden West to the Kebun Baru Birdsinging Club (159 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 5, Singapore 560159 | 24hr daily but busiest 9.30am-12pm Sun & PH) to witness what is touted as the best congregation of songbirds, brought down by their owners to train for singing competitions.

jalan
jalan
.me

 ANNAGEE

The name of this tea shop is actually a play on three Chinese characters which pronunciation is similar to "energy", and mean "serenely and safely offering energy". The guiding principle behind the brand is to elevate the simple pleasures of life through a good cuppa, and as such the tea leaves sold here all hail from some of the finest estates in China. The three varieties available include pu'erh, tieguanyin, and da hong pao. For something more experiential, book a session at the atelier with co-founder and tea master Ms Vivian Ng. She makes for a delightful host and loves sharing her knowledge about brewing methods, tips around mindful living, and stories behind the leaves with tea lovers.

 6383 3228

 Horizon Gardens, 499 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 2, Singapore 567905
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 By appointment only

Round up your day a refreshing cold brew ANNAGEE (Horizon Gardens, 499 Ang Mo Kio Avenue 2, Singapore 567905 | By appointment only), founded by Beijing-trained tea master Ms Vivian Ng who has even created a special Ang Mo Kio blend for the jalanjalan.me community. Remember to scan the Jalanjalan.me QR code at their shop to purchase this exclusive blend that will make a perfect memento of your Ang Mo Kio walk.

Hello, Heartland!

We've planned out a sample itinerary for each neighbourhood
—perfect for half a day of discoveries on foot.

gajan
jalan
.me

Corona Florist & Nursery

This garden centre has been perched on this little hill along Clementi Road even before the road was so named. Corona Florist & Nursery has been in business since 1950, back when the artery was known as Reformatory Road for the boys home that was situated here. Before Clementi New Town was built in 1975, its product range was geared towards the kampongs, cottage industries and farms in the area. These days, their nursery serves the urban jungle set looking for their new green kid to nurture, and offers landscaping services if you have a bigger patch to artfully fill with greenery.

☎ 6466 2827

📍 388F Clementi Road, Singapore 599473
Add to Google Maps | Directions

🕒 9am-5.45pm daily

Clementi brings a wonderful mix of the charmingly old and trendily hip. Start your day with a visit to Clementi institution: Corona Florist & Nursery (388F Clementi Road, Singapore 599473 | 9am-5.45pm daily), which has been perched on a little hill along Clementi Road since 1950, way before Clementi New Town was built in 1975.

Old Jurong Line Railway Bridge

Spanning across Sungei Ulu Pandan, this truss bridge formed by a tessellation of triangles joins Sunset Way and the Clementi Avenue 4 limbs of the Ulu Pandan Park Connector. Way back in 1966, the sleepers here were part of a railway line that was envisioned as a linkway to connect the nascent Jurong Industrial Estate with Malaysia. It was later abandoned in the 1990s when road transportation proved to be more efficient than this arduous task at hand. These days, the bridge and the nearby tracks in a tree-lined spot down Avenue 4 live a second life as a popular spot for photography. Old Jurong Line Railway Bridge is not only popular for your casual #ootd shoots, but ranks high as a pre-wedding photography shoot location too.

📍 Ulu Pandan Park Connector
Add to Google Maps | Directions

The Old Jurong Line Railway Bridge along the Ulu Pandan Park Connector is another historical site: way back in 1966, the sleepers here were part of a railway line that was envisioned as a linkway to connect the nascent Jurong Industrial Estate with Malaysia. These days, the bridge and the nearby tracks in a tree-lined spot down Avenue 4 live a second life as a popular spot for photography.

gala
jalan
.me

 Balmoral Bakery

This grand dame of the neighbourhood has been in business since 1965 (as its signboard so proudly proclaims), though Balmoral only moved to Sunset Way in 1984. Look past the SafeEntry QR code plastered on its glass front door though, and it's like time has stood still in the bakery. On one row of display shelves, slices of butter cake and fruit cake sit alongside confections like creamed horns and coconut tarts. In the back refrigerators, swirls of towel rolls (what they call Swiss rolls) and bright pink frosting on decadently iced butter cakes spark happy memories of birthdays long gone. If you do drop by, make sure to bring home something for your mum – she will appreciate the memories those cakes will bring back, never mind the extra calories.

 6779 2064

 105 Clementi Street 12, #01-06, Singapore 120105
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 8.30am-8pm daily

While in the vicinity, pick up some retro bakes like creamed horns and coconut tarts from Balmoral Bakery (105 Clementi Street 12, #01-06, Singapore 120105 | 8.30am-8pm daily). This grand dame of the neighbourhood has been in business since 1965 and moved to Sunset Way in 1984.

 Summer Hill

Anthony Yeoh, the former head chef of French casual bistro Cocotte, transplants his approachable cuisine to the heartlands. His Sunset Way restaurant, Summer Hill, is a friend's cosy dining room inside and verdant jungalow outside. If you are looking for comfort favourites with a luxe touch, such as stroganoff with stewed Tajima wagyu brisket, fries dunked in duck fat, hormone and antibiotic-free fried chicken, or foie gras-stuffed French ducks, this is the place to go. Hosting an intimate group at home? The restaurant also offers a DIY Eats option of ready meals that you can take home, heat up and dress up on the plate.

 6251 5337

 106 Clementi Street 12, #01-62, Singapore 120106
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 12pm-3pm; 6pm-10pm Tue-Sun

Also at Sunset Way is Summer Hill (106 Clementi Street 12, #01-62, Singapore 120106 | 12pm-3pm; 6pm-10pm Tue-Sun), a casual bistro Cocotte serving comforting favourites with a luxe touch, such as stroganoff with stewed Tajima wagyu brisket, fries dunked in duck fat, and foie gras-stuffed French ducks.

gala
jalan
.me

 Burnt Cones

The newest addition to the Sunset Way neighbourhood, Burnt Cones is a monochromatic and minimalist HDB shophouse space where options on the menu include pats of gelato served on waffles, cones and in cups, as well as coffee to balance the sweetness. Unique flavours on offer one churned with the smokey, pear-shaped Italian cheese Scamorza, and the Fior di Latte with creamy mozzarella mixed in. With all the sweetness on offer here, it seems like the team here never needs to sleep. Burnt Cones opens bright and early at 7am in case you're the type to have ice-cream for breakfast, and those seeking a sugar high ahead of a sleepless night can drop in before midnight, or whenever the pangs hit.

 9711 1097

 105 Clementi Street 12, #01-02, Singapore 120105
Add to Google Maps | Directions

 7am-12am daily

For dessert, head to the newest addition to the Sunset Way neighbourhood, Burnt Cones (105 Clementi Street 12, #01-02, Singapore 120105 | 7am-12am daily) for gelato in unique flavours such as Scamorza, and the Fior di Latte with creamy mozzarella mixed in.